American Legion baseball was first played in 1935. High-school age players from across the nation play Legion (covered later in this chapter), and PONY Baseball, but to name a few. Each has its own set of official rules. Let's use American Legion as an example, since it is the largest baseball program for high-school aged kids. The American Legion baseball side itself is not very pretty to look at, but it's chock full of information. You can find it at www.legion.org.
